HOW TO SOLVE THE PROBLEMS OF FARMERS.

Commissioner Peck Gives Sound Advice.

I have been reading comments on the agricultural situation, suggestions for its improvements and criticism of some of the remedies proposed, as class legislation.

The farmers, as a class, do not ask for class legislation. They are not asking for special favors, but they are asking for legislation that will put their industry on an equal footing with other industries. We hear much about the farm bloc in Congress and violent criticism of it. We have had lobbyists in Congress and in State Legislatures from practically every other interest in the country, as long as we have had such institution, working for legislation favorable to their several interests, and nobody tore their hair in protest.

Now because agriculture must have the consideration it is entitled to or not only agriculture, but every other industry dependent upon it for life, will be seriously affected and some broad minded statesmen and leaders who appreciate the handicaps to agriculture, gets their heads together on a program to relieve the situation and they are subjected to criticism as being radicals and seeking special class legislation for agriculture.

Legislation cannot cure all the ills that agriculture is suffering from. A large portion of it must be done by the farmers themselves. In fact, all of it because the legislation necessary will only be secured when the farmers makes their representatives in Congress understand what they need and keep after them until they get it.

Farmers can do much to improve their condition by diversifying their crops, at least to the extent of that required for use on their own farms.

By Community Cooperative Effort in planning their surplus crops to meet market demands, by warehousing their products and taking warehouse receipts therefore and with those receipts collateral, borrow money to meet their pressing demands until their products can be sold on an orderly market giving them full returns for their products.

There are numerous other things the farmer can do that will help in meeting the situation. If you will take the time to investigate, you will find farmers hauling hay, grain, meats, lard, canned good, syrup, fruits, and vegetables, paying, in many cases, freight and dealers profits, when there is no place in Tennessee where those products cannot be produced cheaper than elsewhere, including freight and dealers charges, to say nothing of the time wasted in going to market for things that should be produced at home and by utilizing time and ground that would otherwise be wasted. There are few farms in Tennessee on which cannot be found productive idle land sufficient, with proper cultivation, to produce more than can be consumed of food products brought and hauled from town. We can accomplish much by developing efficiency and economizing time, by doing the right thing at the right time.

We can do much by avoiding waste of our crops, neglect of our live stock and by properly

Bro. Marion Harris Receives Grateful Letter.

Atlanta, Ga.
Jan. 26, 1922.

Dear Bro. Harris:
Your letter was a very pleasant surprise to me. I was exceedingly glad to hear from you. Frequently, since I came to this state have I thought of you and your work in Tenn. This is a destitute field demanding much work of the kind you did. Thousands of people in Georgia are waiting to hear the gospel the first time. I am delighted to know you are getting out a book of your life. It will do good and be an inspiration to those who follow after you.

Now, I shall be glad to have my picture appear with you and Brother Hunter's on the first page of your book. Also I shall be glad to prepare a sermon for the book. Anything I can do toward getting out the book, I will be delighted to do.

As to that meeting at Willow Grove this spring, I do not see how I can get away from my work down here long enough to be present. I certainly wish I could. Nothing would give me more pleasure, in the way of a meeting, than that one. It would be great to be with you and Brother Hunter again, and to be at Willow Grove once more.

Brother Harris, I am indebted to you in many ways. Your encouragement, sermons, and life have been worth more to me than I can ever tell you. I have heard you preach many good sermons; but your best sermon is your life. This great sermon of yours has been written in language men understand, and in the book which angels read—housing our farm machinery.

While other industries are dependent upon prosperity in agriculture for their prosperity and should be interested in the promotion of policies that would insure agriculture a square deal, we must remember that they are first concerned about their own affairs and naturally will give first consideration. Just as we as farmers should get our heads together to promote our own vocation, find out our weak points and strengthen them. We are complaining of low prices for our products while we know that if we were getting our rightful share of the prices consumers are now paying we would be prosperous, that we are not getting the right price, is more our own fault than any one else, because we have not developed the marketing end of our business. We have been too individualistic, have failed to realize that to be successful farmers, it is necessary to be a good business man as well.

The surplus because of the war and because of the loss of our exports trade will soon be out of our way. If we will do the things we can do, we will gain strength and confidence to solve the larger problems confronting us. We must practice economy, we must be resourceful and depend upon ourselves because the other activities have their problems as well. We are not as bad off as our forefathers who took up their work of rehabilitation after the Civil War. They succeeded and so can we, if we are willing to work and save, meet situation as we find it instead of expecting legislation to cure our ills.

What God Says

about—MERCY

"What is thy servant that thou shouldst look upon such a dead dog as I am."—

2nd Samuel 9-8

A dead dog,—that's what Mephibosheth said of himself.

A king's son,—that's the way David treated him. Here is the story. David, the king, had conquered his enemies and was looking around for a chance to serve his friends and he found that there was a poor lame son of his old friend Jonathan out at Lo-debar. So he sent for him and when Mephibosheth fell before him expecting death as a grandson of Saul who persecuted David for years from sheer jealousy,—when he fell as a suppliant David said,—Fear not, I have given you all the possession of your grandfather and thirty-five servants to till your farm, and as for you, as long as you, as long as you live you will eat at my table.

That was mercy and the shock of it made Mephibosheth feel like a dead dog.

But hat isn't a circumstance to what God for Christ's sake has done for you and me. And yet, we have no conception of His mercy. You and I were deader than Jonathan's son was and have been more ungrateful than a dog could be; and the Eternal God sent Jesus down here for us. He made provision for our eternal life and everlasting happiness at the King's table. Oh, God, help men to be humbled by thy mercy,—humbled enough to receive every provision of thy love,—Amen!

the book of final accounts. Long after your voice is hushed in death your life will preach the gospel in deeds nobly done, more eloquent than the tongues of men and of angels.

You were quite active during 1921. I hope the Lord spares you yet many more years to labor in his vineyard.

Everything here in Atlanta moves along nicely. I am very busy most of the time; but that does not hurt.

With every good wish for your health and continued usefulness, I am,

Bro. Marion Harris Makes Report of Year's Work.

The following is a report of my public work for 1921.

I preached most every Sunday, and held five protracted meetings. One of these meetings was held at Butler's Landing and was one among the best of my life. Although I had held a number of meetings their, this one resulted in 18 baptisms and 6 reclaimed. In all 36 were baptized and reclaimed during my work for the year.

I held 22 funerals; 14 of which the ages ranged from 56 to 85 years; and 8 the age was 18 to 30 years. The saddest thing was, that some of these were not Christians, but my very best friends.

Received $15.00 for my year's work. I first did not accept it, but the good people said, "you have labored here so much and would not take an offering, we will not feel right if you do not accept." I then accepted it with many thanks.

There were four men in that meeting; just a little younger than myself. They became deeply interested, and if the meeting had not been stopped by the rain, I believe they would have obeyed the gospel. Then we could have rejoiced with the angels in heaven. I had rather left empty handed, as to have left those good moral men out of the church, where they have no promise.

Success to the Sentinel.

Marion Harris.

Middle Tenn. Normal.

We haven't very many exciting things to write about this week-end. However, during the week we have had just a few things happening that I might make mention of.

On Monday night we had a recital at the high school building given by the Cecil Fanning (Baritone) accompanied by H. P. Turpine. Mr. Fanning is known most all over the world. He has sung in most all the countries. He sings in French, Italian and German, as fluently as he does in English, even though he is of American birth.

We have also been favored by "The Birth of the Nation" for two days and night at the Opera. The Normalites took great pleasure in seeing it.

As far as me, I have spent this week-end in Lewisburg, at the request of the University of Tennessee. I was called upon to go there to test the Jersey herd of W. J. Ezell. Mr. Ezell has a very fine Jersey herd, at the present time. Out of twelve of the best records anywhere, I believe that Mr. Ezell holds five of them. I believe that he has the best born and equipment that I have seen anywhere in the south. But now we come back and tell the news here.

On Friday evening the "Pellier Players" presented the newly weds on the stage in the Normal auditorium. This was our first Lyceum this quarter, but we hope it will not be the last.

How about old Slicker Snake? We haven't seen anything from him in so long it seems as though he might have got bumped off in the last struggle in "Yuby Dam." I hope to see a report from him this week.

Wesley Flatt.

GOOD HEALTH OF CHILDREN FROM RICH BLOOD

Health, Strength and Vigor

Built Up By Gude's Pepto-Mangan

You see one child strong and robust; another child pale and thin. One eats practically the same foods and takes the same exercise as the other. What is the difference? Nearly always it's a difference in the quality of the blood. The strong child has rich, red blood and plenty of it. You love to see him eat so heartily. If your child is thin and weak, give him Gude's Pepto-Mangan to build up the blood and see the difference between a sickly, unhappy childhood and a bouncing, healthy childhood.

Get Gude's Pepto-Mangan at your druggist's in liquid or tablet form. Be sure it's the genuine. Advertisement.

FARM INDUSTRIES SHOW BIG IMPROVEMENT.

Products Have Advanced Rapidly In Price.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—Optimistic views of improved conditions in the country's basic agricultural industries are warranted by reports received by the War Finance Corporation from its field agencies, according to a statement issued tonight by Managing Director Meyer.

"Corn is now selling at country elevators in Nebraska and Iowa at 40 cents a bushel as against 20 cents four months ago," he said. Hogs command a good market, and reports indicate that farmers are getting the equivalent of 80 to 90 cents for corn that is marketed on the hoof. The market for sheep is stabilized. They are selling in large quantities and at prices considered satisfactory to the growers and feeders.

"The cattle market is no longer demoralized; the breeding herds are being held; the young stock is no longer being sacrificed and the feeding and fattening business is proceeding good volume, and with fairly satisfactory returns. There is a broad market for wool and hides at good prices.

"The grain markets are showing a good consumptive demand. The movement of cotton has been larger this season than last year, and prices are much fairer to the producers. The large cotton cooperative marketing organizations have demonstrated their ability to conduct their business on a sound basis and have proved to be a stabilizing factor.

"All the means that the farmer is being put in position to liquidate his debts gradually and that his normal purchasing power—so vital to the commercial, transportation and industrial interests—is being restored.

Notice to Auto Owners.

The Acts of the Legislature 1919 and 1921 recites, that all persons must, before running Auto, Truck & Etc. on any road or street, obtain from the County Court Clerk 2 numbers plates to be placed on the front and rear of said auto, truck or motorcycle, and any person failing to do this shall be deemed guilty of a MISDEMEANOR. All this comes under the Inquisitorial power of the grand jury, which, convenes the first Monday in March.

All County Court Clerks are required and have to make monthly reports, and as I do not desire to report any person for failing to obey these auto laws, but I am aware that a number of the people are not familiar with the auto laws, hence I give this notice. Please call and get your Numbers, as it is my official duty to enforce these auto laws. February 8, 1922.
